CENTENNIAL

Coin and Curiosity Sale.

PART I.

TO BE SOLD WITHOUT RESERVE AT AUCTION,

BY

MESSRS. THOMAS BIRCH & SONS,

No. 1110 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,

ON

Thursday Afternoon, March 30, 1876,

COMMENCING AT THREE O'CLOCK.

Catalogue by John W. Haseltine,

Orders will be executed by Edward Cogan, No. 108 State Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. Colvin Randall, 114 South Seventeenth Street, and John W. Haseltine, 1225 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, and by the Auctioneers.

Bavis & Pennypacker, Printers, No. 23 South Tenth Street, Philadelphia.

Notice to Collectors.

Parties, who favor me with their bids for pieces at the auction sales, will be kind enough not to send unlimited bids, nor to leave it to my discretion, for it is extremely awkward when two persons send me unlimited or discretionary bids on the same pieces. I have sometimes had three bids on the same piece, all the bidders leaving it to my discretion, saying that they knew I would do the right thing by them. Now, supposing I buy the piece very low, who am I to give it to? I have generally, in such cases, given it to the bids that were received first; or where the same gentleman bid in that way on several numbers, divided them; but this sometimes causes grumbling and requires explanatory letters, etc., which I wish to avoid. Therefore, gentlemen, please put some limit to your bids, and be assured I will buy as cheaply as possible for you without any consideration for what prices may be in my yearly catalogue; for I think that an auction sale is the place to buy coins cheap, and that the prices at auction should not be considered a standard of value, as nearly every one seems to consider it

These Centennial sales, of which this is the first, will be continued during the Exposition, a few weeks apart, and will be mostly of very fine specimens selected and set apart for this special purpose, and are the best of several collections that I have purchased in the past year. The descriptions can be depended upon and I hope will invite good competition, as I shall issue one thousand catalogues of each sale.

Respectfully,

JOHN W. HASELTINE.
